FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Leading Data Management Solution Provider will Present Agenda Session to Audience of Utilities CIOs

March 19, 2010 — The CIO Utilities Summit team welcomes OSISOFT as a sponsor of the leading IT event for CIOs and thought-leaders within the utilities sector. OSISOFT – the leading solution provider for real-time data and events management infrastructure -will present a CIO thought-leadership session and have executive representation at the event. The CIO Utilities Summit will be held at the InterContinental Montelucia Resort in Scottsdale, AZ on April 18-21, 2010.

“We’re pleased to have the support of OSISOFT and look forward to their presentation at the 2010 CIO Utilities Summit. The CIO attendees of our event are looking for new strategies and solution to the challenges they’re facing today. It’s important to have solution providers of great caliber at the event to offer cutting edge insight on the latest technologies in this industry and OSISOFT’s participation will surely shine light on the importance of successful data management,” said Ross Abbott, Event Director, CIO Utilities Summit.

The CIO Utilities Summit will gather CIOs, analysts, IT innovators and solution providers within North America’s utilities industry to strategize and network over the course three days. The summit’s agenda is filled with CIO thought-leadership sessions, keynote presentations, CIO case studies, and CIO executive vision panel discussions. Agenda topics are determined by issues and trends prioritized by IT leaders. The 2010 CIO Utilities Summit is quickly becoming the leading smart grid event and much of the agenda focuses on the topic, including sessions such as “Raising the Bar with Smart Grid Technologies,” “How can Smart Grid Allow Consumers to Integrate Resources” and “The Emerging Smart Grid – Cutting through the Hype”.

OSISOFT will present a CIO thought-leadership session on Monday, April 19. More details on the sessions will be added to the CIO Utilities Summit agenda at <http://www.cioutilitiessummit.com/agenda.php>.
