The CIO Government Summit Announces Latest Delegate Attendees

January 26, 2010 – The CIO Government Summit is pleased to announce the latest delegates that have signed on to attend the 2010 education-focused conference for IT innovators within the government sector. Newly confirmed IT executives include, Cecil Lawson, CIO, San Jose Police Department; Donald Houde, CIO, Department of Education, Arizona; Brian Kiser, DCIO, Executive, Enterprise Technology, State of Kentucky; and Richard Robinson, COO, City and County of San Francisco. All delegates will participate in the summit's strategic agenda of think-tank sessions and idea-sharing. The CIO Government Summit will take place May 23-26, 2010 in Scottsdale, AZ.

“Senior IT executives attending the CIO Government Summit will have the opportunity to interact with peers in local, state, federal and other government sectors. Our agenda is based on delivering educational opportunities for leaders in technology, giving them a chance to discuss their initiatives, challenges and successes. We’re pleased to welcome the outstanding list of professionals who will join us for the 2010 summit and look forward to a great event,” said Mark Southam, Event Director, CIO Government Summit.

The CIO Government Summit will gather CIOs, IT thought-leaders, analysts and solution providers for a three-day event complete with an education-focused agenda and networking opportunities. Attendees of the CIO Government Summit will participate in CIO Thought-Leadership sessions, CIO Executive Visions Panels, CIO Case Studies and open forum discussions. Amongst many peer-led sessions, delegates will also have the chance to hear from distinguished executives, including Chuck Prow, Managing Partner, Public Sector, IBM Global Business Services. Prow will present a keynote speech at the 2010 summit.

Senior IT executives within the government sector are invited to attend the CIO Government Summit, based on their role and experience as IT thought-leaders.
