FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CIO Healthcare Summit Welcomes Data & Information Management Leader CommVault

April 21, 2010 – The CIO Healthcare Summit team is pleased to announce that CommVault Systems Inc., a leading data and information management software company, has signed on to sponsor the upcoming technology event. The CIO Healthcare Summit is being held May 9-12 at the InterContinental Montelucia Resort in Scottsdale, AZ.

The CIO Healthcare Summit is an opportunity for CIOs, IT executives and solution providers to discuss the latest technology trends and issues affecting the healthcare industry, including the HITECH Act, Meaningful Use, cloud computing security, the role of data centers in healthcare and more. Along with educational sessions, the event's strategic agenda includes networking opportunities, keynote presentations and more--in a relaxed, yet focused business setting.

CommVault provides more than 10,000 customers with market leading data and information management software solutions that help healthcare institutions better manage data growth, reduce risk and costs, and improve overall operational efficiency. CommVault® Simpana® software is helping healthcare organizations address and manage top of mind issues, such as the digitization of healthcare information, improving patient care and data access, and meeting government retention, privacy, and security regulations so they can increase ROI in data and information management technology.

“With all of the changes occurring in the healthcare industry, including a move toward electronic medical records, it will be critical for hospitals and healthcare organizations to be able to properly manage their data. CommVault is a leader in the data and information management space and their participation at the event will be of great benefit to our attendees,” said Nick Backhouse, Event Director, CIO Healthcare Summit.

With leading technology sponsors, a strategic agenda and attendees from the top healthcare organizations in North America, the CIO Healthcare Summit is quickly becoming the leading event for technology executives to attend in 2010.
