CDM Media Launches CIO Speaker Bureau

June 9, 2010-CDM Media, the leading technology marketing company, launched today the CIO Speaker Bureau, an online community for CIOs and senior IT executives interested in participating in or speaking at events organized by the Strategic Business Summits Division of CDM Media.

CDM Media's CIO Summits bring together CIOs, technology executives, analysts, and solution providers from Fortune 1000 organizations to network with their peers, attend in-depth educational sessions and learn about new technology solutions. Each summit lasts for 2 ½-days and includes an end-user-lead strategic agenda, featuring one-on-one business meetings, panel discussions, case studies and keynote speeches.

"The CIO Speaker Bureau is a great opportunity for technology innovators to establish themselves as leaders in their respective industries. Our events provide an excellent platform that allows technology executives to shine while presenting their most recent case study or research. In today's competitive market, it's especially important for IT executives to share their successes and failures in order to learn from one another," said Glenn Willis, CEO, CDM Media.

CDM Media organizes technology events for the following industries: government, finance, telecom, insurance, education, healthcare, life sciences, utilities, retail and transportation. Other events include the cross-industry CIO Summit and the CIO Canada Summit, designed to gather Canadian technology executives. To learn about more about all of CDM Media's summits, please visit www.ciosummits.com.

Qualified executives who are accepted into the CIO Speaker Bureau will receive complimentary accommodations, food, and drink at the industry event that they choose to attend.
