New Video: Leading CIOs Discuss CDM Media's CIO Summits

June 18, 2010-CDM Media released today a new one-minute testimonial video featuring leading CIOs from Fortune 1000 organizations speaking about their experiences at CDM Media's CIO Summits. Leaders from the following industries are represented in the video: telecommunications, insurance, healthcare, utilities, and government.

CDM Media's CIO events bring together technology leaders and innovators to discuss the latest IT topics and trends, network with industry peers, and explore technology solutions. Each event's strategic agenda features one-on-one meetings, case studies, panel discussions and keynote presentations. Event attendees are active participants, driving the conversations during the event to focus on the technology topics that are most important to them and their organizations.

In the newly released video, leading technology executives describe their experiences at their respective technology event, including how they benefited from attending and what they hoped to accomplish.
