CIO Retail Summit Partners with Retail Solutions Providers Association

April 28, 2011 – The CIO Retail Summit team announced today that it has formed a strategic partnership with the Retail Solutions Providers Association (RSPA), a group dedicated to bringing together and providing information to the retail technology industry.

The CIO Retail Summit, August 28-31, 2011 in Scottsdale, Arizona, will bring together CIOs and IT executives representing department stores, grocery and supermarket chains, big box, and general merchandise stores. The goal of the event is to facilitate discussions between event attendees, allowing them to make new business contacts and share ideas, best practices and project successes.

Founded more than 60 years ago, RSPA provides members with critical industry news through its monthly e-newsletter, Juice-news, and print magazine, connect. The association's website provides timely news updates, members-only publications and community forums as well as information on education, certification and events.

RSPA members include resellers, distributors, hardware manufacturers, software developers, consultants and service providers who bring retail technology solutions to the marketplace.

"I am excited work with the RSPA for the upcoming technology event. The association plays a critical role in bringing together technology professionals in the retail industry and it is important for our event attendees to be aware of the services and information the group provides," said Ross Abbott, Event Director, CIO Retail Summit.
