CDM Media Lands Prominent Keynote Presenter from Intel Security Group for CISO UK Summit

Carric Dooley to Present on Big Security Data at May Summit

London- April 13, 2016: CDM Media is pleased to announce Carric Dooley, Global Lead Foundstone Services at Intel Security Group, as keynote speaker for the CISO UK Summit for May 10, 2016 in London. Well-known and regarded for his success in the world of IT security, Dooley will deliver a keynote presentation and engage with top-tier CISOs from across the United Kingdom.

With his position at Intel Security Group, he is responsible for driving the strategies that create root-cause solutions. Using his expertise in security technology and architecture, he is able to help clients to measurably improve their security posture to reduce the frequency and severity of security incidents.

Dooley was the lead instructor for the Ultimate Hacking track of classes for public and private clients, as well as at conferences like BlackHat in Vegas. He has also contributed to the development of content for the Ultimate Hacking classes (including Ultimate Hacking, UH WiFi Edition, UH Windows and UH Expert) and delivered dozens of assessments to enterprise clients.

Dooley's presentation will be "Big Security Data: The Needle in the Data Stack" with a number of takeaways.

Takeaways include:

- Ideas around defining good processes, common patterns and optimized outcomes
- Findings from professional assessments and incident responses carried out by our Foundstone team
- Useful remediation guidance
- Recommendations to help you quantifiably move the need with your security strategy
